

Child Custody Dispute Form

The Citizen Report Child Custody Dispute Form is designed to remove police officers from the process of documenting Child Custody Disputes. It is to be completed by the citizen and taken to the police department for the assignment of a case number. Attach additional pages of documentation if needed. It is your responsibility to make your own copies of your report. If you request a copy of your report you will be charged appropriate fees. If you are requesting this report to be sent to the Kings County District Attorney's Office for review of charges, you must submit a copy of your most current child custody court order with this report.

Child Custody Disputes – For non-violent child visitation violations. > Use Child Custody Dispute Form.

Do not use this form if violence is involved; there is a possibility of danger to the child; kidnapping or abduction is suspected, or you want to file a Missing Juvenile Report. You should list the judge, court and docket number, the name, age and address of the child, a complete description and address of the violator, and specifically, what the violator did to violate the visitation order.

This report may be forwarded to the Kings County District Attorney's Office, Bureau of Investigations, Child Abduction Unit upon their request. The Child Abduction Unit's focus is parental abduction concealment, and visitation violations. Remedies to other violations of custody/visitation orders are the responsibility of the parent/guardian who feels violations, other than those listed below, have been committed by someone other than themselves, who is also subject to the custody/visitation order. To address these other violations you must bring the violations before the court on your own.

Family Code Section 3134 allows the District Attorney's Office to be reimbursed for expenses incurred while investigating and enforcing custody/visitation matters. These costs may be allocated against one or both parties involved in this case if violation of your custody/visitation orders continue.
